

Let's shape the future of IT

ELLIX is an international top management consulting company based in Switzerland, Germany and Slovakia. We help our customers to improve their technology management to become more client centric, cost efficient, agile and innovate at a faster pace.

We are the first European consultancy focusing on Technology Business Management (TBM), a management framework developed by visionary CIOs to improve the business value of technology and drive the digital transformation. Our subject matter advise is requested by the CIOs and IT leaders of major international corporations across various industries.

Our daily work is diverse and inspiring and brings us to different project locations e. g. in Switzerland, Germany, Austria, France, the UK, etc.

Senior Consultant – Digital Transformation (m/w)

Working for us is more than just consulting

As a senior consultant on our teams you work on demanding and international projects for well-known global corporations. Taking over responsibility from your first day on, you accompany clients from analysis and conception to the implementation of TBM concepts. You support customers to the rising TBM market and the standards which are developed to provide consistency and success in implementing TBM processes. Your mission is helping senior IT executives to manage, improve and communicate business value.

You are on client site from day one and act as an ambassador of our competencies and values. Delivering sustainable project success, establishing and maintaining trusted client relationships are your core responsibilities.

As part of our unique partnership with the international TBM Council (www.tbmcouncil.org), we are collaborating, sharing our expertise and further develop further TBM standards. You will participate in TBM events and programs including speaking at meetings, hosting and participating in webinars, writing blogs and articles, etc.

Are you ready for your next career step? At ELLIX you can expect excellent prospects for your future career, room for your ideas and comprehensive training opportunities across all areas. A small, collegiate and international team is welcoming you!
